ABOUT ME

BADLAND

I have been actively involved in the ecosystem for over 5 years. I started my career as one of the first female traders in Turkey.

I was later selected by the Ethereum Foundation to join Zuzalu as a Social Hacker, gaining exposure to global projects and communities.

I organized a press event in Paris with The Sandbox and have hosted multiple events across different countries.

I worked as a Marketing & Event Manager at Odos Protocol and as a Marketing Strategist at Semiotic Labs.

In parallel, I am also a content creator. I was invited as an official content creator and press at Consensus Hong Kong, where I conducted 12 interviews. I was also invited by the Solana APAC Accelerator.

In January 2026, I founded Let's Connect a next-generation networking platform focused on creating high value connections within the ecosystem.

ABOUT

LETS CONNECT

Let's Connect is a community built to increase the visibility of women in the ecosystem, support their careers, and help them build meaningful and sustainable networks.

Our goal is not just to create a community, but to build a structure that empowers women, helps them enter the ecosystem, and connects them with the right opportunities.

Through Let's Connect:

- Women can find each other and build strong, valuable connections
- Newcomers are guided and supported in entering the ecosystem
- We organize educational sessions, events, and Twitter Spaces
- We create partnerships that unlock career and business opportunities for our members.

We aim to provide all of these opportunities to our members free of charge.

For partners, Let's Connect is more than a community it is a high value access and growth channel:

- Direct access to a curated and relevant audience
- Strong brand positioning within an engaged community
- Marketing and PR support
- Direct connections with content creators, developers, builders, and C-level participants
- No agency access to creators (lower cost, higher efficiency)
- Campaign distribution, growth support, and user acquisition
- Opportunity to be part of meaningful, impact driven initiatives

Let's Connect creates real value by turning connections into opportunities for both individuals and brands.
